Camp Kajok Korean Culture Camp

Saturday, July 31, 2010
8:30 AM to 3:00 PM

Offered by Korean Focus-Indiana
and
The Korean Presbyterian Church of Indianapolis

WELCOME: Korean Focus-Indiana and The Korean Presbyterian Church of Indianapolis are thrilled to offer the 4th Korean culture camp. Geared for anyone desiring to learn more about Korean culture, this family camp (in Korean, kajok means family) will offer cultural experiences and will connect you with new friends.

WHEN & WHERE: The day camp will be held on Saturday, July 31 at The Korean Presbyterian Church of Indianapolis. Registration begins at 8:30 AM with the formal program beginning at 9:00 AM. The Korean Presbyterian Church is located at 1020 E. 101st Street in Indianapolis. Take I-465 to Meridian Street (Hwy 31), go south to E. 96th St. Turn left onto 96th Street and then turn left onto College. Head north to 101st St. Turn right onto 101st St. and proceed to 1020 E. 101st St.

OFFERING: Have you ever considered how life varies from country to country? This year's camp will give you a glimpse of some activities of daily living in South Korea. Eat breakfast in a Korean home, cook gimbap, learn how South Koreans get around the city, observe Korean holiday celebrations, and more. Also enjoy a drum dancing celebration and learn some basic taekwondo. Children and parents will attend class together, and baby-sitting is available for the youngest campers. Don't forget to bring money to shop at the camp store where we'll feature toys, games, books, home decor items, and more from Korea!

REGISTER: Camp fees include course offerings and a Korean lunch. Registration is due by Friday, July 23, 2010. To ensure attendance, register as early as possible. Registrations will also be taken at the door with cash or check accepted.
